After reading the Lansing State Journal - I'm outraged. Why would anyone think that they should lower child support based on as little as 1 night per week for non-custodial parents. The guidelines as is-already give a break for non-custodial parents that have their children for longer periods of time. The new idea would simply hurt the child. The non-custodial parent could be involved as little as 1 night per week, or every other weekend for one year and pay less child support. This way the non-custodial parent could pay less support with less time spent with the child! This is absolutely appalling!! Make non-custodial parents responsible one way or the other....by either paying or by being a more active participating parent!! Thank you.
